

I am a Postdoctoral Researcher at the Centre of Mathematics and Department of Mathematics and Applications of the University of Minho. I am focused on the development of new methodologies and algorithms related with nonparametric statistics. I am interested in estimation and inference methods of flexible regression models, in developing practical tools for data analysis and in gaining better understanding of real life issues through statistical knowledge. At the moment, my lines of research are nonparametric curves estimation, testing procedures, variable selection, software development, bootstrap resampling methods and applications to different areas of knowledge.

Software

- NPRegfast package
- Author and maintainer of NPRegfast, an R package to perform nonparametric estimation for analyzing interactions factor-by-curve. This package allows the user to obtain nonparametric estimates using local linear kernel smoothers and compare them between factor's levels. Also a feature of the package is its ability to draw inference about critical points, such as maxima or change points linked to the derivative curves. The inference (confidence intervals and tests) is based on bootstrap. This package allows not only to obtain smooth estimates also based on classical parametric models, as allometric model, one of the most used models in biology frameworks usually used to study the relationship between two biometrical variables. Additionally, we have implemented binning type acceleration techniques.
- 2013 FWDselect package
- Author and mantainer of FWDselect (<http://cran.r-project.org/web/packages/FWDselect>), an R package that introduces a simple method to select the best model or best subset of variables using different types of data (continuous, binary or poisson) and applying it in different contexts (parametric or nonparametric).

2012 seq2R package

Author of seq2R (<http://cran.r-project.org/web/packages/seq2R>), an R package to detect compositional changes in genomic sequences. This software is useful for loading .fasta or .gbk files, and for retrieving sequences from GenBank dataset. This package allows to detect differences or asymmetries based on nucleotide composition by using local linear kernel smoothers. Also, it is possible to draw inference about critical points (i. e. maximum or minimum points) related with the derivative curves. Additionally, bootstrap methods have been used for estimating confidence intervals and speed computational techniques (binning techniques) have been implemented in seq2R.
